

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

For me, the problem here is clear cut. No station using public airways should be involved in campaigning for one candidate or another. You would be hard pressed to find anyone that disagrees with this.

I'm also hoping Sinclair is however putting the FCC on notice to why Media consolidation is harmful to our society and way of life. The United States is 'great' because of our focus on each person's rights and the ability of each person to make a difference. Allowing large conglomerates to control our airwaves actually tears away at this fabric. Please, block Sinclair and take a second look at media consolidation. Thank You.
